BOY SCOUTS HAVE A DAY IN NEAR-BY CANYON

A practical lesson in scouting was given the nine boy scout patrols of the Ninth ward last Saturday when, under the direction of Scout Master R. E. Wilson, they went for an all-day hike and picnic, in the Birch Creek canyon. There were about 50 scouts in the party and the patrol leaders were Leland Richards, Warren Husey, Gordon Croft, Richard Vandenberg, Lowell Ridges and Dennis Murphy. The other three leaders were unable to make the hike and the members of their patrols were merged with the other six.

The main body of scouts was preceded by two boys, who left the Ninth ward camp at 7 a. m. The others left at 8 a. m. and tracked their two comrades into the Birch Creek canyon, Indian fashion. Before striking camp the scouts had hiked 10 miles from the city and, with appetites whetted by the invigorating air and healthful exercise of the long walk, they put up their tents and started to prepare lunch. The only cooked food they had taken with them was bread, but, through experience gained in their study of scouting in the Y. M. C. I. association, each patrol soon had an appetizing meal of cooked potatoes, cabbage, bacon and other meats; eggs and fresh vegetables. A feature connected with the cooking of the meals that was worthy of mention was the fact that each patrol was allowed only two matches with which to kindle a fire.

The meal was eaten with the relish that is the inheritance of youth and, after it was cleared away, in good order by the scouts upon whom that duty fell, the afternoon was occupied with practical work in woodcraft, first aid and other kinds of scout work, under the direction of Scout Master Wilson and the patrol leaders. The work was gone through in excellent manner and with a great deal of enjoyment by the boys and they were also permitted to play a number of amusing games appropriate to the time and place.

They returned to the city about 7 p. m., feeling a little tired from their 20-mile hike, but happy because of the opportunity that had been given them to have such an outing. A noteworthy feature connected with the hike, Mr. Wilson stated, was that, though nearly 50 active, healthy boys had made the hike and that there had been considerable rivalry in the different contests of the day, they returned home feeling just as friendly toward each other as when they left. This, he said further, is largely owing to the reason that they have the real spirit of scout work, which not only makes them stronger mentally, morally and physically, but also inculcates in them the true spirit of comradeship.

CANYON WRECK IS THE CAUSE OF HEAVY DAMAGE SUIT

Recollection of the collision of the canyon cars at the mouth of Ogden canyon July 4, 1913, in which a number of people were sent to the hospital badly injured, some dying within a few days after, was renewed today when Fred A. Brophy, a cigarmaker, filed suit in the district court against the Ogden Rapid Transit company for $30,250, alleged special and general damages for injuries which he sustained in the collision. The complaint alleges that, on July 4, 1913, while riding on a car bound for the Hermitage in Ogden canyon, a collision occurred between the car Mr. Brophy was on and one coming down the canyon, in which the plaintiff was badly injured. It is specifically stated in the complaint that Mr. Brophy suffered severe injuries to his left instep and foot, a compound fracture of the lower part of the leg and a serious fracture of the femur bone. It is also alleged that the body was badly bruised and wounded, all to the special damage of the plaintiff in the sum of $250 and general damages amounting to $30,000.

It is further alleged that Mr. Brophy has been incapacitated in his vocation as a cigarmaker and that he has not been able to do any kind of work since the time of the injuries and that it is with difficulty that he moves about.

HEAVY BEET CROP IS PROMISED ALL FACTORIES

On his return from a trip of inspection to Burley and Lewiston, Ida., and Logan, Utah, Secretary Fred G. Taylor of the Amalgamated Sugar company is very optimistic regarding the sugar crop this year. He states that in all likelihood the beet crop will be the bumper crop in the history of the sugar business and, were it not for the unfavorable situation respecting sugar prices, the plants of his company might well be enlarged, especially the plant at Ogden.

The sugar beet acreage is greatly increased this spring, 4500 acres having been contracted in the vicinity of the Burley factory, 11,000 for the Lewiston and Logan factories combined, and 7400 acres for the Ogden factory. Nearly all the fields have been seeded and farmers say the outlook for a heavy tonnage has never been brighter.

Weather conditions are about the same in the northern districts, Mr. Taylor says, as they are here. The farm lands are filled with moisture and, even though the temperature is a little low, it is considered good growing weather for sugar beets.

Mr. Taylor states that all the factories will be placed in good condition for the campaign, as they will be worked to their capacity.

STORAGE TANKS FOR OILS ARE TO BE ERECTED

This morning the city board of commissioners granted the petition of the Ogden Paint, Oil and Glass company to erect storage tanks for gasoline, kerosene and lubricating oils in the vicinity of Spencer and Ogden avenues and Twentieth street. The tanks will be placed on a spur track leading from the main line of the Oregon Short Line.

A resolution providing for the paving of Eccles avenue with concrete and asphalt, rather than the straight concrete, was passed and the engineer was instructed to advertise notice of intention. The former resolution providing for the paving of the avenue with concrete was rescinded.

The petition of property owners for water main extension on East Fourth street was referred to the superintendent of water works.

REPAVING OF 24TH STREET ADVISED

The business before the city board of commissioners last night consisted largely of petitions for certain improvements which were referred to the proper departments for consideration before final action.

The petition of property owners to have Eccles avenue paved with an asphalt surface was referred to the superintendent of streets and city engineer with instructions to present a resolution rescinding a previous resolution providing for concrete paving. Commissioner Chris Flygar reported that stagnant water, previously complained of by property owners on Pingree avenue, had been removed.

City Engineer Washington Jenkins reported that Twenty-fourth street, between Washington and Grant avenues, is so badly damaged that it is necessary to repave it. The engineer estimated the cost at $10,400.75. This matter was referred to the committee of the whole.

Petitions for sidewalk and curb and gutter on Twelfth street were ordered returned to the petitioners for correction and also to gain jurisdiction by getting more signers. The recommendation of City Auditor A. F. Larson, to make a rule for the payment of claims against the city

AMMONS ISSUES PROCLAMATION

southern fields to those of the extreme north, continuing with a vigor in the southern zone which probably cost the lives of seven mine guards at the Walsen mine near Walsenburg, and being inaugurated in the northern field by simultaneous attacks on the mines of Louisville, Lafayette and Marshall.

The conflicts between strikers and mine guards at Walsen and at the Hecla mine at Louisville continued throughout the night. The arrival of the militia from Ludlow at the Walsen mine apparently had no effect upon the many strikers who kept up their fire at the mine from long range, even after the troops were ordered to the defense.

Shortly before midnight the militia reached Walsenburg and its force of fifty men was divided, half staying in Walsenburg and the other half going to the Walsen mine by a roundabout way, to avoid contact with the attacking strikers. Upon their arrival they determined to do nothing more than aid in the defense of the mine property until the developments of the day more clearly defined the work that would be needed of them.

Fresh outbreaks in the Trinidad district were reported from the Forbes mine camp early today with no casualties. The main body of state troops is located at Ludlow within easy striking distance of the Forbes camp, but no order went forth for troops to move upon strikers there. Late yesterday the guards were driven from the McNally mine by strikers after two men had been killed and two persons wounded, one a woman. The strikers then fired the duffle and other buildings in the mine camp taking complete possession of the property.

Meanwhile, in Denver, state officials were doing nothing. They waited word from Washington that President Wilson had determined to send federal troops into the state and waited word that never came. Governor Ammons today faced an army of women, even as he did Saturday and Monday. They clamored for the appointment of a committee of women to go to Ludlow and search the old strikers' tent colony site, where they claimed more bodies of dead must remain. They told the governor that 100 children of strikers' families were yet unaccounted for, in spite of the fact that other investigating parties had announced no more bodies could be found at the old colony grounds.

All yesterday and until late in the night, Governor Ammons refused to grant official recognition to any committees the women suggested for their announced purpose. Today the women "built camp fires" and determinedly sat in the big outer office of the governor's chambers, vowing they would remain there until they had been recognized. The governor held them off, hoping, as did all other high administration officials, that word would come at any moment announcing that the orders would be given for federal troops from Fort D. A. Russell, Wyo., to entrain for the strike zone. In that manner the state officials hope to compose the situation and end the lawlessness which had reigned in Colorado eight months.

Situation Beyond Control. Strike leaders claimed today that the situation throughout the state had grown beyond their control, and that the insurrection in the northern fields last night as proof of their claim. They asserted that the mine guards there started the trouble because of an agreement which was made, they said, in Denver last night between the mine operators and the sheriff of Boulder county, to turn over all machine guns in the northern field. Union leaders declared the guards had precipitated the fighting in order to evade surrender of the guns. Sheriff Buster, himself, was a member of the defending force at the Hecla mine and directed the guards and his deputies, totaling about 75 men in their efforts to withstand the attack. He was present when the fighting began.

Attorney Blames Strikers. District Attorney Carlson of Boulder declared, however, that the lawlessness in the northern fields last night was the result of a pre-arranged plot and that he would hold the strike leaders in that district personally responsible for it.

No estimate of fatalities on the strikers' side in any of the clashes could be had from union headquarters here today. Fighting at both Watson and Louisville was heavy and to participants it seemed that there must have been losses to the strikers. At Lafayette two machine guns were turned upon the strikers and poured a rain of bullets in their direction. The same was true of the attack at Marshall.

Terre Haute, Ind., April 28.—Resolutions calling on the president of the United States to intervene in the Colorado strike were adopted by the miners of the Eleventh district here today when they assembled to again take up the matter of a wage scale which so far has been in a state of deadlock.

The resolutions set forth that the officials of Colorado are responsible for the conditions existing there.

Walsenburg, Colo., April 28.—One dead, one probably fatally wounded, two slightly wounded, was the toll of fighting between strikers and mine guards in this vicinity which began yesterday afternoon at the McNally mine and during the night spread to the Walsen-Robinson mine on the edge of the town.

At 11 o'clock the firing had ceased. The dead: GEORGE BOCK, striker. Wounded:

Mike Lenzi, storekeeper, shot through stomach, probably will die. Margaret Gregory, shot in arm. William Peet, striker, shot in leg.

Walsenburg, Colo., April 28.—At 7 o'clock this morning Sheriff Farr reported that the fighting at the Walsen mine, near here, had assumed renewed vigor. The fifty members of the state militia which arrived here late last night, is outnumbered 10 to 1, and a clash between them and the strikers is expected at any moment. No further fatalities were reported at this hour, though the fighting had continued all night.

Shortly before 10 o'clock Sheriff Jefferson Farr had not verified the two to four fatalities reported from various sources. Two strikers were reported wounded.

Buildings Destroyed by Fire. The buildings at the McNally mine one mile west, where the fighting started yesterday, were practically destroyed by fire during the night, according to advices received early today.

It was stated here that the strikers had sent an ultimatum to the manager of the Oakview mine near La Veta, demanding the surrender of that property. It was said the demands had been refused and that an attack was expected momentarily.

BURGLARY CHARGE IS BEING HEARD IN COURT

In Judge N. J. Harris' division of the district court this morning, the case of the state of Utah against G. H. Crowder, a colored man, charged with burglary in the second degree was called for trial and David S. Tracy, David F. Steele, George E. Brown, Arthur G. Tribe, C. W. Hinchcliffe, Asael Farr, Joseph Felt and Thomas Evans, were empaneled as jurors.

The information alleges that the defendant, on the night of February 9, 1914, entered the barber shop of Heber N. Folkman and stole a bicycle. The barber shop is situated on Washington avenue, between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth streets, and entrance to it was made by breaking in the rear door. The bicycle was afterwards sold to a second-hand dealer in the city and Crowder was arrested at Logan.

The witnesses who testified during the forenoon were H. N. Folkman, Henry W. Farley and Benjamin Brown. Mr. Folkman told of the bicycle having been left in his barber shop and that Crowder knew of it, as he had worked as porter in the shop until the morning before the theft when his services were dispensed with and the key turned over to another porter, Henry W. Farley. He said that the defendant had no right in the shop after the morning of February 9. Farley testified to having taken the position of porter in the shop and remembered that he locked the place at closing time.

Mr. Brown identified the wheel which was introduced in evidence as the one taken from the shop.
